DEAN’S MESSAGE
The Beedie School of Business at Simon Fraser University is dedicated to research and teaching. Our mission, to create and communicate powerful ideas that educate and inspire future founders, leaders and managers, expresses our commitment to improving the performance of individuals, organizations and communities through both of these activities. Our faculty members are thought leaders in four areas that define 21st century business: knowledge, innovation and technology; globalization and emerging markets; society, environment and governance; and capital and risk management.

We champion lifelong learning, embrace productive change and challenge our students and ourselves by bringing the best of research to the learning experience. Business research ties knowledge from the social sciences to administrative reality. Through research, our faculty develops an understanding of, and is able to improve, administrative practices. Through education we facilitate the development of critical thinking skills and foster our students’ understanding of business actualities.

The Beedie School of Business holds both AACSB and EQUIS accreditations, which places us among an elite group of dual-accredited business schools globally. The rigorous external review process of these accreditation bodies confirms the high quality of our academic activities and the international relevance of our programs. We are consistently ranked among the top 100 business schools in the world for research output by the University of Texas at Dallas in their annual survey. This past year, Shanghai Jiao Tong’s world university rankings placed SFU among the top 75 universities internationally for business/economics research.

Respected around the world, our faculty members use their research to advance our understanding of complex business issues while maintaining a commitment to excellence in teaching. Through their research activities, faculty members fulfill our mission to create and communicate ideas that advance our knowledge, benefit our students, and contribute to communities both local and international.
